St Joseph's Hospital

St Joseph's is a private hospital and registered charity run by The Sisters of Annency. Holder Mathias is commissioned to produce a strategy for the continuous adaptation of the existing estate in response to new technical issues and improvements in the healthcare services being offered. The strategy includes options for providing new buildings on the site including a new building to re-house the Physiotherapy department. The new department has been planned in clearly defined zones for the staff, treatment rooms, gym and hydrotherapy, all focused on a spacious and light central waiting area. The two storey block has an independent access for the upper floor which contains various administrative and support services. Provision of the new building allows a series of other developments within the main buildings.
