As lead architect to the Welsh Investment Strategic Partnership, a consortium led by global investor Babcock & Brown and backed by the Welsh Assembly Government, Holder Mathias was selected for WISP projects in Nantgarw and others in South Wales.

The WISP Nantgarw project is the first site for development within the central phase of Parc Nantgarw, which has been created on the site of a former colliery. It provides a new visual landmark although materials have been selected to help the building blend into the surrounding landscape.

Holder Mathias is also engaged on WISP projects in Swansea and together with TACP on a scheme in Newport.
