This is a speculative industrial unit on the former Bromley Gas Works site in the London Borough of Newham, E16. It provides one large production and warehouse unit capable of sub-division into four units. The unit has all necessary flexibility in servicing and access arrangements.

An economic four-bay steel portal is provided with a raised parapet to provide a constant eaves line. Silver horizontal profiled cladding gives a clean crisp image with a large area of curtain walling to the offices on the north elevation. An interesting feature is the curved aluminium suspended canopy to the front entrance.
